“ My aunt Barbie was someone special not only to her sisters but to us kids too. When we spent time with her, she treated us like we were her own. She lived life to the fullest and didn't care what others thought of her. She always smiled and laugh, teaching us to always love ourselves and be happy in our own skin. She wore her heart on her sleeve and was always herself in every place she went. When we used to talk about the good ole days, she talked about her times at Lionel and how much she enjoyed working there. She enjoyed spending time with us kids and always enjoyed talking about how we were when we were little. A few stories she always talked about was when she told me she was never coming to watch me play softball again because I kept fouling the ball and almost hitting her, she came back. She was always very supportive of all my sports and activities. When we played Marco Polo with her, she could never get us because we cheated and stayed on the deck, she never gave up on trying to get us and always played the game with us regardless of if we were in her pool or she was in our pool. When my one brother was little, he would jump out of the crib and onto my Aunt Barbie then took off running around the house. She told my mom she would never babysit again, but she did. At times she was the butt of the joke, and she didn't care. I remember one time she put her head on my shoulder and said why do u guys always pick on me and started laughing. I said because you're a good sport and we love laughing with you. She lifted her head to look at me and said I love you too. It's one thing we never had to wonder about, just how much Aunt Barbie loved and cared for us. As we work through the hurt and pain of losing an amazing person, I ask you to continue to share your memories of my aunt. That's what she would want, for all of us to live life to the fullest, be happy in our own skin, and love each other for who we are. I know she's living her heavenly life to the fullest now with my grandparents, uncles, and aunt. Aunt Barbie, I know you can hear me up there.... thank you for being my friend in addition to my aunt, and a positive role model.

“ Bobbi Viviano was my precious friend, and one of the sweetest people I knew. Her heart was as pure as the driven snow, and I really think she never stopped smiling. She was that kind of welcoming friend, that always looked like she was waiting just for you and was genuinely excited by your mere presence. We shared meals and laughs and Jesus. I haven't seen her in a few years, but she is alive in my memories, and we WILL meet again in heaven. I am sure Vickie Morgan-Hudson is having a grand ole' time showing her around her new home. This thought warms my sad heart. Rest in heaven's peace Bobbi. You are loved.
