“ My Aunt Betty was a big part of my life growing up. My sister and I loved to spend the night with her because she let us stay up late to watch TV and eat Fritos. She spent the first day of our lives buying duplicates of our baby clothes because no one expected twins. She was always thinking of others instead of herself. When she was upset with someone, she usually didn't say anything to the person, but the family knew that cupboard doors would be slammed. We teased her about this for years and she would laugh too. I have so many wonderful memories that I will cherish. I loved her very, very much and I will miss her.
