“ I have so many great childhood memories with my Papa. From the mulberry tree in his backyard, to always waking up to the train that went by behind his house in the middle of the night, to loving the scrambled eggs he made so perfectly and even to giving each other a hard time about Team Edward or Team Jacob. Papa loved his grandkids more than life itself and it was so evident, even years later when we were grown and doing our own thing. I love you always Papa, rest in peace ☐

I would listen to Carl play piano by standing in the street near his home. The window would be open and the music traveled throughout the neighborhood.

"The Entertainer" He never played after he sold the piano in 1983, we bought him a keyboard a few years back. Never touched it.
