“ It's crazy that today was your memorial. I tried so hard not to cry. Even though I think of you daily and I have your cookie monster ornament hanging around my mirror. I couldn't help but to think back on some of the old memories. Especially when we would dance to the music on ellen Degeneres , or just the music playing off of my phone. Whether your made people mad or not. You made them smile immediately after. Only God knows how much you ment to us. But he is also doing us all a favor and he has you healed as your watching over us. It's been a tough 6 month with out you. But I know that you're here with us everday. I have your Kermit the frog, horse, nativity set, clothes, pictures and more all around my room . You were definitely my and I was truly blessed to have you apart of My every day life:)

“ Words will never express my condolences to the family ! Every memory I've ever had with Charlie will always be a great memory. I'm thankful for the time I did get to spend with him . This last morning eith him was the greatest ! From our little conversation to him telling me he loves me . Oh , and don't forget about Oscar the Grouch ! Sesame street was never my favorite but for some reason I could watch it with him . I'm gunna moss watching Ellen and Rachel Ray with him . He always would remind me about them coming on . Lately when he got excited he'd kinda scarce both sides of his nose and look up at you with a smile and say yes to pretty much any question. Charlie will never be forgotten and I believe he is an angel in the sky now . He's been asking me Alot about my birthday lately so if always tell him that it's coming up shortly. Another thing, Charlie loved to dance . Even tho he didn't move much but he would stand up hold my hands and dance with me . The way it lit his face up I will never forget ! He loved the Ernies work of art book , we ready it so much we have it memorized . I remember he was trying to rip some of the pages and I was like Charlie , if you rip thw book we won't know what words to say . His bad days were even more of a blessing . Charlie had great strength . I guess what I'm gunna miss most is waking up to get him out of his room and to see if he peed or not, usually if he peed he'd say I peed my pants. Then to go and have breakfast and somedays he's throw it m but he always told me he loved me! I love you Charlie
