

Connie J. Miele

September 23, 1949 - April 3, 2025

Connie Miele, born September 23, 1949, passed away on April 3, 2025, at the age of 75, leaving behind a legacy of humor, resilience, and unapologetic individuality. Connie was a wife, mother, grandmother, sister, aunt and friend, who lived life on her own terms and with no apologies. She had an undeniable presence, one that could fill a room with laughter, a sharp remark, or a sigh of pure exasperation. She will be missed but never forgotten.

Connie was preceded in death by her beloved husband of 41 years, Angelo Miele Sr., her parents Chester and Virginia Eckhout, her siblings Ronald, Sharon, Patricia, William and her cherished grandson, Preston.

She is survived by her four children—Michelle (Lyn) Van Camp, Stefanie (Ken) Quandt, Antonia (Richard) Eddy, Angelo Jr. (Bryanna) Miele—and her nine grandchildren: Brittany, Jessica, Cailyn, Bailee, Savannah, Lincoln, Aviana, Angelo III, and Natalia.

In her professional life, Connie was a dedicated social worker, known for her no-nonsense attitude, immense compassion, and her ability to give advice whether you wanted it or not. She was an expert in tough love and didn't waste time sugarcoating anything—just like she didn't waste time worrying about other people's opinions. She was her own woman, and that was exactly how she liked it.

Connie leaves behind a trail of memories full of humor, love, and moments where you couldn't help but laugh at her sheer honesty. If she didn't like something, she'd tell you, and if she loved something—whether it was a Big Bang Theory marathon or a new steamy paperback—she'd share that with you too. Connie was truly one of a kind. She never apologized for being herself. She will be missed more than words (or a 3 Musketeers bar) can express.

In her after life, we hope that she has found peace and that there's an endless supply of spicy books, plain Lays potato chips, Diet Pepsi, and her beloved Jean-Luc Picard.

At her request, Connie will be cremated, and a private memorial service will be held.

Jowett Funeral Home is privileged to serve the Miele Family.
