“ I’ll never forget the first time I met my future (now ex) mother-in-law. It was Easter dinner at their house in Royal Oak and when she opened the bottle of ranch dressing some splashed onto her blouse and in her droll and deadpan way she said to everyone “did you see that? Sue just got ranch dressing on my blouse”. I was mortified, but then saw her shoot me a quick grin and I had her number from that day on lol. She made the ring bearer pillow for Todd’s and my wedding, and during our divorce she made me an absolutely gorgeous blanket that I still treasure. I appreciated her dry sense of humor and her welcoming me into the family and keeping me in her life long after Todd remarried. I’m especially grateful to Todd, Val and Brent for taking such good care of her daily needs for the last many years. She wasn’t always easy, and probably didn’t always show it, but I know she loved and appreciated the heck out of her kids and their spouses. I’m glad you’re at peace mom! Being with dad and Tom must have you elated. You lived a beautiful and generous life.

“ I will always remember David and I playing in the snow up at the lake house. I’ll miss you Aunt Dolores, I’m glad your back with Uncle Wib.
