“ I truly believe my Dad was the greatest man that lived. Reading messages and memories about him show how special he was to all that knew him. There is a giant hole in my world now. My dad loved music, The Beatles especially but there was much more. He loved to sing and was in a wedding band. He would spend hours singing with my mom and Uncke Charlie. He loved karaoke. He loved politics, and cooking. He loved walking down to the beach to watch the sunset. He loved my Mom . He loved his children and his grandchildren beyond compare. He loved all of his friends and family. He was cool. He introduced me to comic books, science fiction books and movies, and video games. He loved technology and was always ready to try the newest gadget, especially in the Television and music realm. He was the funniest man I knew. He loved telling jokes, watching funny tv shows and movies and even watching stand-up comedy. He worked for the Macomb County Sheriff department when I was growing up and he never complained about his jobs. He made me so proud. I will miss him saying “Hi Peanut” which he said to me every single day that I saw him, even when he was sick in the hospital. My mornings are the worst. I wake up every day knowing I have to face this world without him, and I’m not even sure how. I’m grateful for every moment I ever spent with him.
