“ Too many childhood memories to even list, not to mention so crazy things that shouldn't be in writing. You were my rock on days of trouble and my dale to my chip at the blue water festival. Til we meet and laugh again. Love you with all my heart Kris Hietikko Lashbrook

“ I am saddened to hear that Heather is no longer with us. I met Heather at St. John where we both worked with Dr. Glen Minster in neurosurgery. We had so many laughs together and I will forever remember the princess stickers that she wore. You made each day fun and you loved life. I know you will be missed.

“ Dear family;

My fondest memory of my sister Heather was this new feathered sweater and cowboy boots she purchased. she was ecstatic about the new sweater and boots, and she wore them when we went out to celebrate a special occasion, her birthday.

We were all having fun dancing and laughing and telling stories when I noticed she kept blowing on herself, and her face....finally I spoke up and asked what is wrong? She looked at me with discuss and said remind me to never ware this sweater again. I have feathers everywhere.

Later that night she decided to grab a bite to eat from a fast food chain right next door to where we were at...Her bright idea was to walk over so we did, but.. the main area where you eat was closed. No one was around at the drive through so Heather gets this bright idea to walk up to the window...first they weren't going to open the window but after announcing it was her birthday the girl opens the window, looks at Heather and says "I'm sorry but we are not able to serve you". Heather asks Why? The girl responds back with "because your not in a car"....with a disgust look Heather replies..."peep". (That didn't work either, the girl shouts the window). After walking back to our car Heather actually drives up to the window. When the girl opens the window Heather says; "Remember me?...lets try this again cause its my birthday" as she blows feathers from her face out the window...we both busted out laughing...but you know what? she got what she wanted...and she was pleased, (until she tries to eat her food, then she looks at me and say's....Remind me to never wear this sweater ever again...I replied "I promise".) and she never did, not to my knowledge anyways. I can still visualize her and the feathers everywhere...and it will always put a smile on my face along with other great memories she has left me with. I will not cry because she is no longer with me, these tears you see are for her because she is free and I know she is with her mother and father, (which I know for a fact she missed more than anything). And I know she sits on a cloud with her parents looking down on us.

I know she will be the shining light at the end of any tunnel I may found myself lost in.

She will be our guiding angel and I know that God has many great plans for her.

with all my love
