I believe we are given lives to make an impact on others. James (Picaso, Jambo, little brother) definitely made one on mine. I loved working close with this man. Fearless, thoughtful, funny, just a real nice guy. There hasn't been a day since I met him I haven't thought about him in one way or another. Always willing to drop everything and help you out, always made me laugh, always made hard work fun. I can honestly say he made my life better in a lot of different ways, and for that I will forever be grateful. Always thought of him as "little brother", but the greatest honor I had was calling him friend. Love 'ya Jambo.

To the entire Klave family, to all those who were touched by this man's life, may God comfort us and give us peace. To those of us who remain, may we live making each moment count.

*Forever grateful,
Ben Lander*
