“ Every day I wake up and it hits me anew that I will never see you again in this life time. I feel a terrible sense of loss and wonder if I'll ever stop missing you. We were so close for so long and you were a part of me. I picture you walking through the pearly gates looking around like a child in wonder at the beauty of heaven and being free of pain and strife, amazed at the freedom of all your earthly afflictions and I'm happy for you. I know we will meet again some day and it will be better than ever. Rest In Peace my beloved friend, until we meet again. Have that game of Sequence ready. It's my turn to win. I love you.
