“ Jeffrey was one of the first friends that I made when I moved to Castle Rock, Colorado in the 1980s. Those were some of the best times of my life. Jeffrey had a jeep and a few of us went up the Fire Service roads west of town. He was low on gas and I was worried having the heat on would use more gas. I was 21. He laughed that laugh of his. My first 3 children refer to him as "Uncle Jeffrey". He was greatly loved and will be greatly missed.
