“ Dave, Kim and Family, I just ran across Keith's obituary and after reading it, realized it was your son. I'm so very sorry for your loss. My memories took me back to a days so long ago when the kids were so little and riding our great danes in the yard. I know there are no words that would take the pain away but know that my thoughts and heartfelt sympathies are truly with you. I'm in South Carolina, very close to Savannah Ga and I see your in Florida, not all that far away you know. Please take good care of yourselves and each other! Always an old friend, Mary Ann (Alexander) Simms

“ To the family of young Mr Dillion, please accept my sympathy at such a sad time, as I read of your sons obituary I remember my own son who died at the age of 24 in 2007. My heart broke and it ached, but I found comfort in God's Word at Revelation 21:3, 4, 5..where our Heavenly father promised that one day he will wipe away all our tears and death will be gone forever, and he will make all things new which means he will give us a new heart and return our loved ones to us. I hope you too can find a moments comfort in the scriptures. May God give you comfort and walk with you during this time.

“ I have so many as I watch him grow from childhood into manhood, the talks we had and sharing his struggles. One of the best times I had was playing drums at his first live show at The Bridges in Port Huron. I miss you so much son and I love you son.

I am so sorry about the death of your young son. I know the wonderful memories you have lessen the pain sometimes. But I also hope that by reading these text about the hope for those that have died will comfort and encourage you: John 5:28,29; 11:38-44.

“ I remember when I moved in right next door to you in 6th grade. We would open our windows and talk all night. You were the first to befriend me when I was alone. I have so many fond memories with you that I will never forget. I have and always will miss you Keith. My heart breaks for you Kim, Dave, Trina, David, and everyone who has ever had the pleasure to know him and see that smile.
