“ Growing up, all my Smith cousins were older than me. I looked up to and admired them all (and still do!) Although I hadn't seen Kris in a while, I always remember when I was little that I thought she was so pretty, so tan, so sassy :) and (secretly) I loved that she had a tattoo on her chest. I remember swimming in a pool with her and thinking I wanted to be cool like her (and was definitely gonna get a tattoo when I was older!)

She was sassy and stubborn but always was unapologetically Kris. I like to think we were birds of a feather.

I send all my love to those that knew her best and loved her through it all. She will be missed ❤️

“ I’ve known Kris her entire life. Fierce and Fragile! Funny 😊 she used to follow me everywhere. We had a rule like most did... when the street lights came on we better be home! One time she didn’t want to leave in time so we ran home and arrived “After Dark”. I ran faster and flew up the stairs... Kris caught the D A of dark with a belt lash for the each letter before arriving safely in our upstairs bedroom.

I doubt we could do this now but Bobby, me and Kris made a human tower, she was only on top for a second before we all crashed to the floor 😂😂😂 alerting our parents to the fact... we were not sleeping.

We had our share of disagreements, she was a true hard headed Leo ♌ woman. Sometimes she would ignore me for months! It was just her way. I never gave up, and one day she would respond like nothing ever happened.

So many stories about sisters goofing off. Not enough 😊, not nearly enough.

Forever in my closet, jewelry box, diary, phone book, refrigerator, business and now just memories Forever in my heart!

“ Kris was such a great lady . She would always bring money over for my autistic grandson Ian to help with his therapy. When my sister was very ill she made sure she'd stay online playing games with her in the night to keep her mind busy. . She will be missed.
