“ Another year has come and gone without you. Christmas has past and so has your birthday. I baked a cake for you and sang Happy Birthday. The whole in my heart is still huge. There is no one that understands my pain. I stand alone on this issue. There are so many unanswered questions. When we are together again I want to hear all the answers. People around me are moving along but I seem to be stuck and cant move forward. If you can see or hear me I need you to come to me in my dreams and let me know you are alright. I hold you very close to me Michael. Love you forever and ever....Alice

“ Its that time of year again. Your birthday is approaching and so is Christmas. You are always on my mind. There isnt a day that goes by that I dont sit and stare at your picture wondering how did you and I end up in the life we did. What a disaster. Two children orphaned at birth, unwanted, then adpted to a couple who didnt want us again, only to be sold for $2,600.00 by our father and abandoned by our mother for her boyfriend who was later proven an unfit parent in court and then adopted a second time to a lunitic father and the same unfit mother for a lifetime of alcohol addition, drugs addition and child abuse both mentally and physically. I managed to survive the insanity but for you my little brother, you never stood a chance . I tried to protect you from them. I really tried. I love you Michael. I will never be the same. I have lost a big part of me. They will have to answer someday for their evil deeds. Rest peacefully my baby brother. No one can hurt you anymore. Love Alice...

“ I continue to surround myself with you . I keep your picture everywhere I go. You are in my phone, my truck, next to my bed and alwasys in my heart. I had a melt down last week. I still hear your voice in my head but I have not had a dream about you at all. I want you to be safe and happy. I love you little brother. We have been through alot together. You are deaply missed. Love Alice

“ What can I say? Michael, you were my best friend. You were the last to relax by the fire out back. Every time I go past Tom Manis', where we often had breakfast, I think of you. You were a good man, Michael... so sadly missed.

Alice, when I read your post on December 15th.. I cried. I remember going to Port Huron to visit Michael. We sat at a bus stop, across from a church decorated with lights, about a week before his birthday. He clearly stated, "I love the lights around Christmas". Michael was my best friend. I tried to call you. I have something he told me, I must say. I did speak with your mom, but I did not tell her. I must talk to you, and I am not far away.

“ All the memories I have of you is me protecting you from yourself or others. I did all I could to help you get counseling and treatment. I have cried an ocean over you. The frustration level was overbearing. The guilt I have to do more is eating away at me. I dont know what else I could have done. You pushed me away from you. You became more isolated. I couldnt break through the barrier you created. My heart is so broken. You are a big chunk of me and now that is gone forever. I count everyday you are gone. I miss you. I love you Michael.Alice XXOO
