“ I met Ray in 1958 when I started dating his brother, he was a gentle giant, quiet but very caring. He was encouraged to join the service and I was in the group that went to the train station to see him off, he was nervous and a little scared but I told him how proud I was of him and encouraged him to give his all. When he came home after basic training he was a proud man with a plan, unfortunately he did not return to his hometown so I did not see him often but I always remember the quiet, caring boy who became a wonderful man. RIP I hope you and Butch are having a happy reunion.
