Tribute Wall

“ When I met Richard Bennett I did not have a dollar. I had no legitimate way to pay rent and I have no idea how I was buying food. What I had was a physical education degree from The Citadel which made me one of the most unqualified people on the planet for the job which Richard had open. He could have found a better candidate in about an hour. But he hired me, and trained me in the field of industrial hygiene; a line of work that continues to pay dividends to this day. He never made me feel stupid, even though I knew he was one of the smartest people I had ever met. He also taught me quite a bit about optimism. There was simply no reason for Richard's kindness to me. He was just a good man. That is why I got on a plane and went to Kershaw, SC. Some people just deserve to have their funeral attended. Thank you, Richard. I hope I made you proud.
