“ Sally and Family,

Wayne is in our prayers. And of course, we keep your entire family in our prayers also. Wayne, was in the same class with my brother Bill and I (Rick) was a number of years behind both of them. But I was kind of a regular at the Summers household during those early years. When Bill was away in the Air Force for four years, Wayne was kind of a surrogate older brother. He would come and pick me up and we'd go play tennis or softball, often with a group of friends of the Summers family. That, being included, meant a lot to me. Wayne never treated me like "the kid." He was five year years older, but I always felt like an equal.... even when we played poker. I won a few, but in truth I was terrible at cards. Later on, in the mid 70's, Wayne, Bill and I were house mates on the East Side of Detroit. I have a lot of fond memories from that time and some pretty good stories too.

When Rosie and I were married, Wayne was our photographer. There have been times over the years we've run in to each other randomly or at graduations or family parties and each time it was great to catch up.

Wayne was a great guy and We have fond memories and life was better for having known him. Time and miles often kept us apart, but no one can take the memories.
